International conference in Copenhagen: Perspectives in precision medicine

Challenges in the cross field between pharmaceutical development, user involvement and ICT

28 February – 1 March 2018

National and international delegates from companies, research institutions and the health sector will meet, share knowledge and be inspired, form new projects, identify project-funding opportunities and learn about precision medicine seen from new and exciting perspectives.

The event will take place at the new state of the art science building Maersk Tower at the University of Copenhagen, which displays an exciting interdisciplinary academic environment in the heart of Medicon Valley.

During the 2-days event, the delegates will be met with interesting scientific sessions, including structured matchmaking, mingling, exhibitions of funding opportunities and a great social event.

In connection with the conference, there will be an opportunity for site visits to leading Danish companies and institutions.

Sign up for the conference and the matchmaking sessions from September 2017.

(Participation is free of charge and the numbers of seats are limited)
